

Reference Letter

07/05/2026

I am writing this letter of recommendation for Prem Kantilal Lodhia, who was a student in my Computer Systems module at Birmingham City University. As a lecturer, I have known Prem since September 2025, and I have had the pleasure of teaching him, where he proved to be an exceptional learner and an asset to our classes.

In the classrooms and labs, I found Prem to be a diligent and motivated student. He always showed enthusiasm for learning, participated actively in class discussions, and asked thought provoking questions. Additionally, he demonstrated excellent analytical, practical, and critical thinking skills, allowing him to quickly understand complex computing concepts and apply them effectively. Prem showed excellent performance when working individually and in groups, often taking a leadership role, and proved his ability to adapt to any learning and working environment.

Furthermore, Prem was consistently punctual and professional in all his interactions. He regularly submitted assignments on time, and his work was always of exceptional quality. In addition, he was proactive in seeking feedback on his work, which helped him continually improve his skills.

Prem's ability to adapt to new challenges, combined with his thoughtful approach to both technical and conceptual work, assures me that he will excel in his academic and career pursuits. His drive to expand his skillset beyond traditional boundaries demonstrates a forward thinking mindset and an eagerness to embrace innovation, both of which are key traits of a successful undergraduate student. I have no doubt that Prem will contribute meaningfully to any academic or industrial environment opportunities. I fully support his application and am confident that he will thrive in his professional and academic journey.

Please feel free to contact me should you require any further information.
